THE CHALLENGE

AllAces Cleaning and Restoration was called in to undertake a challenging job following a factory fire in Frenchs Forest, NSW. The factory had been heavily affected by soot and smoke, with strong odours and extensive damage to the floors, walls, and stairs.

THE SOLUTION

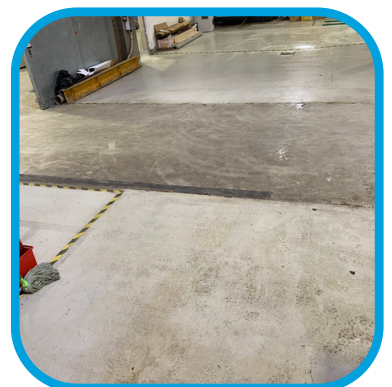

The first task was to address the two flights of stairs that were covered in soot and smoke residue. With meticulous attention to detail, the team painstakingly removed the soot and eliminated the smoke odours, ensuring that the area was restored to a safe and healthy workspace.

Moving on to the main factory floors, the team utilised their expertise in floor treatments and quickly vacuumed and mopped the entire floor on two levels, leaving it clean and free from any soot or smoke residue. The team also took care of the walls, which had sawdust residue and were meticulously cleaned.

THE OUTCOME

As part of our comprehensive approach, AllAces recommended additional treatments to achieve the best results. Setting up containment areas to prevent cross-contamination, state-of-the-art air scrubbers and hydroxyls were deployed to purify the air and eliminate any remaining odours. With an unwavering commitment to quality and our extensive experience in fire damage restoration, AllAces went above and beyond to restore the factory to its pre-fire condition.
